Quartered Safe Out Here is a memoir of George MacDonald Fraser's wartime experiences as a soldier in Burma in the last year of World War II. He was only nineteen when he came to Burma, and the war was already wending to a close -- first in Europe, then in Asia --, but the combat was no less fierce for that -- and, in some cases, more desperate.

Fraser covers what it was like to be a British soldier in Burma from the boredom of waiting to the horrors of the close quarter jungle fighting. He also provided a brief history of the war in Burma. He was a young man and this was before he became a writer, but his talent comes through as does his superb storytelling ability.
