Redefining Health Care Quotes. It has gravitated to a zero-sum competition, in which the gains of one system participant come at the expense of others. Participants compete to shift costs to one another, accumulate bargaining power, and limit services. This kind of competition does not create value for patients, but erodes quality,...

Redefining Health Care Quotes by Michael E. Porter

In Redefining Health Care, they provide a detailed assessment of the misalignment of incentives and the ill placement of competition. Central to ills of the current model of US healthcare are reimbursement models based on fee-for-service, with medical culture designed to provide "more" services instead of focus on "value".

Value-Based Health Care and the Role of Outcomes Opportunities for the OECD

Competition has failed in health care for the simple reason that it is based upon entirely wrong metrics. We must reorient health care around value for patients, rather than current drivers like geography or the discounts negotiated by insurers. Only then can we create a system that delivers sustained improvements in quality and efficiency.
