A boy's brain really is different from a girl's, which means our methods for parenting a son will be much more effective if we'll adjust accordingly. For example, Dr. Jantz says most boys thrive when they're allowed to move around more frequently while they're doing activities that require a lot of concentration and focus.

Why Parents Should Raise Boys Different Than Girls | Jim Daly

Do people honestly believe raising boys and girls to be significantly different? Do you believe it is harder to raise boys over girls (or vice versa)? Or do you believe that raising a child, boy or girl, is the same across the board, it's how you raise them that makes it difficult or easy, not their gender?
